General Information about Corfu

Corfu or Kerkira is the diamond of the Ionian Sea and the northwesternmost part of Greece, which has a significant role in Greek history and culture, a unique place between east and west. It lies in the Ionian Sea with 217 km of coastline and covers 588 km<sup>2</sup>.

Azure aquatic neighborhoods, immense bays with sandy beaches create a smooth coastline, scenic coves, natural flora, verdant mountains and numerous islets, synthesize the region of Corfu. It is perhaps the greenest island. The island offers an epic narrative of the natural landscape with a continuity of multimodal residential and historical elements, through a well-developed road network.

These components establish the genius loci of the authentic Ionian hospitality.

Climate

Corfu enjoys the Mediterranean climates. The rainy season is normally between October and March.

Even in the hot summer months, Corfu offers pleasant temperatures due to the Ionian Sea breezes.

Population

The population is 101.113 inhabitants, although including temporary and semi-permanent residents the total number approaches 150,000 people, while the town of Kerkira alone has 30,000 inhabitants.
